Occupation:
I've worked in scientific research at a well known university since leaving school, though over the last few years I seem to have drifted into facilities management. How did that happen?

Education:
O levels A levels, the usual sort of stuff. Though I annoyed the powers that be greatly at school by insisting that I wanted to do a mix of arts and science A levels. Apparently you had to be pigeonholed even at that tender age.

Religion:
I'm a collection of biochemical processes, when they stop so do I. Does anything come after? I guess I'll find out one day. Though normally brought up as C of E I'm probably nearer being a closet Buddhist.

Politics:
There are lies, damned lies, and politics. And no matter who you vote for the government always gets in. My own beliefs veer from side to side of the centre ground.

Appearance:
Own hair, own teeth, unlikely to alarm those of a nervous disposition. Just under 6 feet tall, muscular build.

Languages Spoken:
I can utter enough words in French to keep me out of trouble but other than that I have to rely on speaking English VERY LOUDLY and waving my hands about.

Musical Instruments Played:
Recorder: To be absolutely truthful I did once teach myself the recorder but the noise it made was so hideous that I soon desisted and gave the wretched thing to a charity shop. Wouldn't mind having a go on a saxophone though.

Music Enjoyed:
Blues, Pop, Swing, 50s music, 60s music, 70s music, 80s music, 90s music. My musical tastes are pretty wide ranging - good music is good music no matter what its genre. Have to admit to being a Bowie fan, though not so keen on his later stuff. Not a lover of rap music, did they leave the letter C off the beginning? Maybe it's an age thing.

Sports and exercise:
Cycling. Swimming. I had to put cycling 'cos my car is parked a couple of miles away from where I work, got to get there somehow and cycling is free and keeps me fit. Swimming just makes me feel good, I really enjoy it.

Interests and activities:
Antiques. Camping. Cars. Collecting. Countryside. Motorbikes. Photography. Lots of things interest me, I've ticked the box marked camping but I have to emphasise this is in a camper van and not one of those cold draughty tent things! What with that, and a liking for cars and motorbikes I guess I'm a bit of a petrol head. Photography is a particular passion, though I couldn't make a living at it.

Animals and Pets:
Dogs - yes, loyalty and friendship. I have dog of my own who is both loyal and friendly when he isn't sleeping, another favourite activity. Cats, aloof and independent but I like them, and have had several over the years. Rodents - no thank you. I wonder if guinea pigs do actually taste nice...

Newspapers and magazines:
Independent, New Scientist, Viz. Newspapers tend present facts viewed from the perspective of their own political leanings. I might read the Independent but would gain more enjoyment from Viz.

Books:
Bill Bryson, C. S. Lewis, Charles Dickens, J. R. R. Tolkien, John Le Carré, Mervyn Peake, Philip Larkin, Philip Pullman, Terry Pratchett, Poetry, that would have to be the likes of Edward Thomas, Robert Frost, and John Betjeman. I love reading, all sorts of books, but they've got to be well written. Holiday pot boilers do nothing for me at all.

Favourite Films:
Citizen Kane, Kind Hearts and Coronets, Terminator, 2001, Carrie, Mervyn Peake, Philip Larkin, Philip Pullman, Terry Pratchett, Poetry, that would have to be the likes of Edward Thomas, Robert Frost, and John Betjeman. I love reading, all sorts of books, but they've got to be well written. Holiday pot boilers do nothing for me at all.

Enjoyable evening out:
I could be persuaded to go almost anywhere on an evening out, though I'd probably draw the line at fetish clubs and other dens of iniquity.:-)

Favourite Dishes:
Food! All the suggested choices sound great to me and I'd happily choose any of them. I'm not a fussy eater on the whole but for some reason I can't abide coq au vin.

Ideal Holiday:
Driving across the US. Lying on a beach in the Caribbean, Scuba diving in Thailand, I don't know if I could put up with lounging on a beach for too long. I generally prefer to be actually doing something. On the other hand it might be nice to give it a go. In another life:

Sadly life isn't a rehearsal. If it was, and I could have another go, I'd like to come back as me and make a better job of it second time round.

Personality:
Humorous, Practical, Tolerant. I think all my friends would describe me as humorous, and most definitely practical, but other than that I think different people will pick up on different aspects of your personality. I do have friends though, which is the most important thing.
